

Tim Todd is an executive writer and historian with the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. He is the author of seven books on the history of banking and financial services, including most recently, “Let Us Put Our Money Together, The Founding of America’s First Black Banks.” He also served as a writer and associate producer for a documentary about the history of the Federal Reserve that was produced by Kansas City PBS station KCPT. Prior to joining the Federal Reserve, Tim was a journalist for 10 years and spent another five years as a writer focused on fixed income markets.

The views expressed by the author are her own and do not necessarily reflect those of the Federal Reserve System, its governors, officers or representatives.